What's New In IconReplacer?

IconReplacer is a freeware tool for replacing icons on your Windows executable files. It always saves a copy of your selected program, and replaces its icon with a version with the selected icon. Creating a new icon is, of course, up to you. The selection process allows you to save the images in several formats supported by Windows. If you have a large collection of applications, you can create several batches of executable with different icons. Without actually modifying the executable, you can check the result of the process before saving your project. When you are satisfied with the result you can easily save the batch. Configure Icon Replacer: - Enter the path where the program will be saved (default is the current directory). - Select the icon format to use. For a list of formats supported by Windows, select the Format List. - Enter the name of the icon file (.ICO). - Enter the path of the folder where your replacement icons will be stored. Let's see some samples: To run this executable, select a program with an icon, right-click and select Replace Icon (In some programs icons in the title bar can also be used for the process) In the results, you will see an icon of the same program with a different icon. To change the icon of the file, drag and drop the newly created icon onto the current icon, to replace it. To create new icons, you have to enter the directory of the program in the path field. This directory usually has icons in it. For example, if you selected the program test.exe, the path would be: E:\>test.exe The folder icon.ico is used to create new icons. To create a new icon, just drag the icon.ico on the folder icon. Note: to access the icons, drag the folder icon.ico on the image icon (the image icon is at the top of the folder). To replace an icon, drag the icon on your program.ico and then replace the image icon with the new icon. Drag and Drop icons: You can also drag and drop the new icon on your program in order to replace the old one.
