Ebook in this article, we will see that we can try to know if a formula is correct. 1. A formula is said to be correct, if it gives right values in all cases. 2. We will first see some simple rules, which will definitely help you in the correct application of this law. The Four Step Rule: a) Write the formula. b) Try it. c) Make sure that all signs are positive. d) Attempt to evaluate the formula. 4. The final evaluation. The two Step Rule: a) If the formula is long, write it. b) Try to make it shorter. c) Put a large letter after the formula. d) Finally evaluate. Hope that these rules will help you in the application of the Four Step Rule. At this juncture, do not forget that remember all the above rules as and when we see them in the exercises. We are taking up a problem related to Circumference of Circle. The boundary of the circle in its inclusive sense is the circumference of the circle. The circumference can be measured by observing the line passing through the centre of the circle. At this time we do not want to be confused with the term Step. The Circle is a special case of a Disk. Thus if we want to know the circumference we can also calculate the diameter. We can also refer it as a Circular Circle. The problem was stated as: Find the circumference of the circle whose diameter is 6 cm. Thus if the diameter of the circle is 6 cm we may consider the circle as a disk. Thus we can write: i) The diameter of the circle. ii) The Radius of the circle. iii) The Area of the circle. iv) The Volume of the circle. v) The diameter of the circle. As the question was stated: Find the circumference of the circle whose diameter is 6 cm. Thus, we will consider the following points: i) The diameter of the circle is 6 cm. ii) The radius of the circle is 6 cm. iii) The area of the circle is  $\pi(3)^2$  iv) The volume of the circle is  $\pi(3)^3$  As the question was
